

Free Great Stock Photo Websites

Don't be stuck with boring stock photos! Not only can you have interesting photos that aren't the typical group of business people sitting at a table and smiling at a document, but you can get these for free – with the rights to use them for commercial use!

NEVER use images without permission. You cannot Google an image and use it on your website without getting permission from the owner. You can be SUED for doing this. I have seen this happen. It's usually because people don't understand the laws around using images, but that's not an excuse. Using images without permission is stealing. Don't do it.

Here are some websites that provide free photos with the rights to use them for anything – even commercial use.

Paid Photos, Graphics, Fonts, and More!

These are reputable websites that provide stock photos, graphics, fonts, and more for a fee. The fees vary, but some can be very reasonable, and they often offer packages.

Creative Market www.creativemarket.com BONUS: Each week Creative Market provides 6 free files. They can be graphics, fonts, website themes, photos, and more. You just need a (free) account and to visit the website to download them. Once you've downloaded them, they remain in your Creative Market account for future use if you lose them.

Evanto Market market.evanto.com BONUS: Each month, Evanto Market provides 1 free photo, graphic, audio file, video, and more. You just need a (free) account, then visit each of the site's stores (one for each type of file), and scroll down to the Free section. Files are NOT kept in your Evanto Market profile, so be sure to keep track of them.

iStock www.istock.com BONUS: Each week, iStock provides 1 free photo, graphic, audio file, and video. You just need a (free) account and to visit the website to download them. Once you've downloaded them, they remain in your iStock account for future use if you lose them.
